POSITION DESCRIPTION

This position is located at the Extension Office in Hamilton County, with additional duties in other EFNEP counties as needed. Use Ohio EFNEP curriculum to teach nutrition, physical activity, food safety, and how to save money on food. Teach low-income youth and parents or caregivers of youth. Teach the EFNEP class series to groups of adults and youth in the community. EFNEP classes may be held at locations like community centers, job training programs, schools, and summer food programs.

Maintain accurate and complete records and reports for all activities, as required by the sponsor agency and by OSU Extension. Use standardized evaluation instruments to assess program participants' knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behaviors to determine educational needs and program impacts. Maintain confidentiality of participants and individual records. Recruit adult and youth groups by doing outreach in the community. Recruit adults by reaching out to agencies and programs that target low-income families with children. Recruit youth by finding schools that serve 50% or more of their students with free and reduced-price meals and by contacting other programs that work with low-income youth.

Applications will be accepted until February 8, 2026

EFNEP Overview

The Family and Consumer Sciences' Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded by the National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) and works through Extension programs at land-grant institutions in every state and in the six U.S. territories. In Ohio, EFNEP is administered by Ohio State University Extension in the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences. EFNEP serves limited-resource adults who care for children, young adults without children, and school-age youth. The program uses interactive discussions and activities to guide participants through a series of community-based classes aimed at improving diet quality, food safety, resource management, food security, and physical activity.
